

“LAUNDRY DAY”

OCEAN FLOOR - IMAGINATION

A giant starfish explores the ocean, it picks up various items from the ocean floor; a rock, some keys, a pair of sunglasses which it places on its upper most tentacle.

(Mom’s voice/distorted)
“What are you up to?”

LIVING ROOM - REALITY

Raylan, in Dad’s oversized hoodie sweatshirt, is pretending to be a starfish

Raylan
“I’m a starfish.”

Junie is asleep on the couch on top of a giant stuffed bear, Verne. She is only wearing one sock.

Mom carries a basket of laundry.

Mom
“As long as you are exploring, can you check under the couch for any loose socks?”

UNDER THE COUCH/OCEAN CAVE - IMAGINATION

Starfish Raylan dives deep into the ocean and peers into a dark cave. The floor of the cave is littered with socks. He begins to collect them. From deep in the cave a tentacle shoots forward and quickly snatches up the remaining socks.

Raylan
“Hey!”

A large single eye opens in the darkness.

Raylan
“No fair your arms are longer.”

LIVING ROOM - REALITY

We pop back to real life. Mom sits on the end of the couch counting socks. Raylan dumps his haul into her lap. She finishes her count, she is still one short.

Mom
"How are we still missing one sock?"

Mom spies a lone sock under the coffee table.

Mom
"There it is!"

Mom grabs the sock and adds it to the pile of laundry.

Mom
"Great! We are all matched up! Heave ho, to the laundry we go!"

Mom and Raylan begin to sing a "heave ho" laundry shanty as they parade to the laundry room....

Junie wakes, looks at her one foot of naked toes and shrieks....

Junie
"My sock!"

Mom, walks over to the couch and pulls the remaining sock off of Junie's foot .

Mom
"Shoot, we are still one short."

Dad enters.

Dad
"What's all the commotion?"

Raylan/Junie
"We are missing one sock."/"Someone stole my sock!"

Dad (goes to the couch and begins tickling Junie)
"Maybe it was the KRAKEN that stole your sock!!!!!"

Raylan/Junie:
"KRAKEN!!"

Dad tosses Junie in the air. Dad looks at Raylan wearing his sweatshirt and sunglasses....

Dad
“Have you spent all day on the ocean floor?”

Raylan nods proudly

Dad
“and there was no sign of the Kraken?”

Raylan
“No but I found 5 socks.”

Dad
“Well that’s pretty good”

Ava, the family dog, prances through the living room her collar jingling.

Mom
“Raylan, what do you say we give the starfish suit a tumble through laundry land?”

Raylan
“Ok, but I would like to keep the glasses.”

Dad
“Deal.”

Dad lifts the sweatshirt off of Raylan and tosses it into the laundry basket in mom’s hands.

Junie,
“Where is my sock!?”

Everyone turns to Junie on the couch.

Dad (salty sea captain voice)
“Well if it’s the Kraken that’s got it, it might be lost for good.”

Junie
"NO!"

Dad
"But if there is a pirate who would know the whereabouts of a sock or kraken it would be Ann Bunny."

Junie/Raylan
"Ann Bunny!"

Raylan and Junie run to their room. Junie drags along her teddy bear, Verne. They push open the door and we are now in...

PILLOW FORT ISLAND/IMAGINATION

Raylan and Junie are on the sandy beach of a small island that is almost completely covered by a large fort made of pillows.

Ann Bunny and her pirates sail a pirate ship through the skies with a bounty of pillows.

They sing a chorus of the pillow fight anthem.

The pirates land on pillow Fort Island, toss down their loot and head to the cookie horde to celebrate.

3 pirates recount tales of bravery stealing the pillows of sleeping toddlers

Marco Pillow
I slipped the pillow right out from under his sleeping head

Vasco Pajama
I liberated a pillow from her sleeping arms

Ann Bunny
I grabbed the cushions right off the couch!

A milk drunk Marco Pillow stumbles through the hall and crashes into the wall knocking a bear shaped hole in the side of the fort.

Through the hole in the wall we see a giant squid rise up from the water and grab the pillows from the beach.

Giant Squid/Mom

“Cookies? Where did you get cookies?”

Raylan

“From the secret larder.”

Giant Squid/Mom

“Well how many do you have left?”

Junie (checking the inside of an lunchbox),

“Two”

Giant Squid/Mom,

“Well give me one and maybe I won’t tell the great white whale.”

Through the main entrance of the fort we see an enormous white whale floating in the distance. It waves a flipper.

Giant squid/Mom

“I’m taking these pillows back to the couch.”

For a moment the illusion is broken. We see the room for what it is, a child’s bedroom with a make shift fort in the center. All the pirates are stuffed animals.

Raylan

“But we need those!”

Mom

“I need socks.”

Raylan/Junie

“Dad!!!”

Through the door we see into the living room dad is sitting on the couch in roughly the same position as the white whale.

Dad,
“Listen to your mom.”

Junie,
“fine.”

The illusion resumes.

The pirates are up in arms. What are they going to do about the hole in the wall? The fort is unstable and begins to shake. They need something quick. There is no time for another pillow raid.

Raylan looks at Junie’s bear, Verne. Verne is just the right size to fit the hole.

Raylan
“We could use Verne.”

Junie
“No!”

Raylan
“But if we don’t the whole fort will tumble.”

Junie
“No!”

Raylan
“It’s not forever, just until we can find more pillows.”

Junie
“No!”

Raylan, “If the fort collapses there will be nowhere to sing shanties and eat cookies. There will be nowhere for Ann Bunny to live!”

Junie
“Ok. But only if Verne agrees.”

Junie and Verne sidebar for a moment. Verne is animated on Pillow Fort Island but does not speak. After a brief moment Verne walks over to the wall and wedges himself into the space in the wall.

Raylan and all of the pirates cheer.

Junie to Verne

Suddenly, a tentacle lifts the ceiling of the fort and the big eye of the giant squid peers in from above.

Mom/Giant Squid
“How’s it going with the sock hunt?”

Junie
“We haven’t started yet.”

The Great White Whale joins the squid looking down through the ceiling of the fort.

Dad/Great White Whale
“Well you better shake a leg and start that treasure hunt, that load of socks is about to walk into the washer on its own.”

The Squid and Whale drop the ceiling back on the fort. We hear great splashes in the distance.

Ann Bunny
“What is this about a treasure hunt?”

Raylan
“We need to find a missing sock.”

Junie
“It’s not missing, it was stolen!”

Marco Pillow
“Stolen?!”

Junie
"By the Kraken!"

Vasco Pajama
"But no one has ever seen the Kraken"

Raylan
"Is the Kraken real?"

Vasco Pajama (incredulous)
"Is the Kraken real?!"

Marco Pillow (incredulous)
"Is the Kraken real?"

Vasco Pajama (incredulous)
"Is the Kraken real?! (to Anne Bunny, sincere) I don't know, is the Kraken real?"

Ann Bunny
"Of course the Kraken is real! If it wasn't real how would it steal socks?"

Junie
"But if no one has ever seen it..."

Ann Bunny
"I may not have seen it but I hear it moving about the seas. It makes a terrible clickety clack like jangling shackles combined with the eerie sound of a tiny bell."

Junie
"That sounds scary."

Ann Bunny
"I don't know, I've never seen it. I think it might be kind of shy."

In the distance we hear a growing sound of clickety clacking and the jingle of a tiny bell.

All the pirates freeze for a moment as the sound recedes into the distance.

Anny Bunny
"Let the hunt begin!"

Raylan, Junie and all the pirates charge out of the fort and pile into the pirate ship.

IMAGINATION/ First Stop - BARREN BUOY/ CAT POST

Raylan, Junie and the pirates sail out into the open ocean. The only marker in the sea of blue is a large rickety buoy.

Raylan

"I don't see how any socks could get all the way out here."

A gull swoops in and drops a small object into a nest at the highest point of the buoy.

Marco Pillow

"I suppose that's how a sock might come to be all the way out here."

Vasco Pajama

"We will have to make it to the gulls nest to know for sure."

The pirate ship sails up next to the buoy.

Raylan

"Junie, get on my shoulders and maybe you can see up to the nest."

Junie climbs on Raylan's shoulders but is just slightly too short.

Marco Pillow

"Send up Ann Bunny"

Ann Bunny climbs up and over Junie's shoulders and comes face to face with the gull who screeches in annoyance.

A face appears in the sun.

Sun/Mom

"Leave Olive alone?! Get down from there you are going to topple the whole thing over!"

REALITY

We cut wide to the living room. We see Junie sit awkwardly atop Raylan's shoulders, scaling a large cat tree, Ann Bunny in one hand. The family cat (Olive) sits atop the highest nest of the cat tree roughly where the gull sat.

Mom

"You are supposed to be finding socks. Plus that thing is covered in fur."

Junie sneezes.

Mom

"See?"

IMAGINATION/Second Stop - KELP FOREST/ CLOTHES LINE

Ann Bunny leads the way through a shimmering kelp forest.

Ann Bunny

"There's endless places to hide in a kelp forest."

Vasco

"It's the same from every direction!"

Marco

"Kelp as far as the eye can see!"

Raylan (pulling out a sword)

"Should we cut it down?"

Pirates

"No!"

Junie/Marco Pillow

"It's an important part of the eco system."

Ann Bunny

"We have to move very carefully, keep a keen look out and listen. "

A large shadow moves through the kelp.

Marco/Vasco
"The Kraken!"

Ann Bunny
"I think that's just the Whale."

The whale peeks through the blades of kelp, waves and moves along.

Suddenly a jingling sound passes by them and trails off into the distance.

Ann Bunny
"That's the Kraken!"

Raylan
"After him!"

Raylan trips and gets twisted in a kelp. The twisted blades reveal the giant squid, looking annoyed.

EXT. YARD - REALITY

Raylan is on the ground twisted in a sheet, now dirty with grass stains

Mom
"Well I guess this one goes back in the wash. You are supposed to be finding dirty socks, not making dirty sheets."

Dad
"Let me help you unwrap this rascal."

Dad unrolls Raylan from the grass stained sheet.

Dad
"Ok fearless adventurers, off you go, back to the hunt."

Mom
"We need that sock, I'm about to start the next load."

Junie

“We heard it, mom, we heard the kraken!”

Mom

“Did you?”

Raylan

“It went this way. Follow me”

Mom and Dad giggle as Raylan and Junie run off dragging Ann, Vasco and Marco with them.

IMAGINATION/ Final stop – THE DEEPEST DARKEST CAVE/DOG HOUSE

Junie, Raylan and the pirates enter the cave. There are bones scattered about.

Vasco Pajama

“I’m scared”

Anne Bunny

Suddenly, the light from the mouth of the cave is blocked and a jingling echos in the cave.

They scream!!!

Mom/Squid and Dad/Whale lift the cave, sunlight pours in.

REALITY

Raylan, Junie and all their stuffed pals were in the dog house, now held aloft by their parents. They are surrounded by socks. Ava/Kraken picks up a sock and shakes it back and forth, the bell on her collar jingling.

Mom/Squid

“What are you doing in here?”

Dad/Whale

“Look at all those socks.”

Mom/Squid

"You are both filthy. "

Dad/Whale

"Well there is plenty from another load now."

Mom

"Everybody into the house."

Cut to:

Raylan and Junie sit in front of the washer as Ann Bunny and her pirate gang, alone with several socks tumble in the wash.

Raylan

"Look how many socks we found! I think we were a big help."

Junie

"I think helping is fun"

Raylan

"That's because we made it an adventure"

Mom

"And you did it together. Everything is more fun when you do it together."

Dad

"Even hunting a Kraken."

Ava trots through frame, collar jingling.
